Don't lose sight of the fact that U.S. War Bonds are a splendid investment. When you buy them you help win the war now. But important too is that you lay away money for your own future money that will come back to you in ten years... increased one-third. Buy all the Bonds you can.

WHAT D'YA MEAN IT'S ALL OVER...

If you ask me, too many people are looking at this war through rose colored glasses! But it doesn't make sense. Don't call me a pessimist. I'm in the middle of the fight—and although like you, I can see Victory in sight, there's still a long, tough battle ahead!

Maybe you think of war in terms of glorified blood and thunder.

But when you've dragged your feet through mud, and trudged to keep your rifle dry no matter how you feel; when you've watched your best friend drop from enemy fire, and not even been able to stop to see if he's alive; when you've seen a company of Yanks machine gunned out of existence trying to take a little hill of earth; you know that every minute of war must be counted in so many more dead men.

That's why I feel tough about over-optimism. That

RUSSIANS RESCUED
FROM STRICKEN SHIP

By The Associated Press
AN ALEUTIAN ISLAND BASE, DEC. 25 — (Delegates) — The Russian crew of an American-built Liberty ship, which broke in two in the Bering sea, was safe today after being rescued by United States Navy craft.

All of the Russians, including four women, and the still-flaming stern half of their ship were brought to an Aleutian base. The other half of the ship also has been salvaged.

The vessel, named the Valery Chaklov by the Russians after its delivery under the lend-lease program, was severed during a storm (Another Liberty ship, the John P. Gaines, broke in half in the Aleutian area in November).
The 13th Naval district at Seattle announced the loss, said 11 men of the 100 aboard were missing.
The ship was American operated.
Two other Liberty ships were reported similarly wrecked recently in North Pacific storms.

The 10,000-ton Russian ship, out of Vladivostok, broke apart in a vertical split amidships as if a gigantic cleaver had struck it.

Distress signals were sent out and two other Russian ships steamed to the wreckage and stood by. The Russians were unable to determine their exact location because the sun and stars were blotted out by the storm. It was three days before the United States Navy craft were able to find the wrecked ship and complete rescue of survivors.

The women members of the crew were a doctor, two stewardesses and a bookkeeper.

JIMMY IS MAJOR DESPITE PROTEST

By The Associated Press

A U. S. BOMBER BASE, ENGLAND, Jan. 29 — Major Jimmy Stewart still was his silver captain's bars at his Liberator base yesterday, ununiformed officially of his promotion from captain to major.

Confirming statements made by his friends yesterday that the former movie star had rejected a chance for promotion, a headquarters spokesman announcing the promotion last night said he had turned down a previous opportunity for advancement.

His friends said he had declined the new rank "until my junior officers get promoted from lieutenants."

Today Lt. Major Anderson of Santa Ana, Calif., base public relations officer, disclosed several junior officers in Stewart's squadron had been promoted since the star of "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington" started his superiors by declining a time requirement waiver.

Stewart's required time in the captain's grade now has elapsed, however, and he became entitled to promotion without the waiver which is allowed in the case of combat men. The promotion has not yet cleared the usual air force channels officially, however, so Stewart still wore his captain's stars today.

A squadron commander, Stewart has piloted a Liberator on three raids thus far.
